Input by civil society to the 2021 EASO Asylum Report

Fields marked with * are mandatory.

Dear

Colleagues,

The production of the EASO Asylum Report 2021 is currently underway. The annual Asylum Report series present a comprehensive overview of developments in the field of asylum at the regional and national I e v e I s .

The report includes information and perspectives from various stakeholders, including experts from EU+ countries, civil society organisations, UNHCR and researchers. To this end, we invite you, our partners from civil society, academia and research institutions, to share with us your reporting on developments in asylum law, policy or practice in 2020 (and early 2021) by topic as presented in the online survey.

Please note that the EASO Asylum Report does not seek to describe national systems in detail but rather to present key developments of the past year, including improvements and challenges which remain. Your input can cover practices of a specific EU+ country or the EU as a whole. You can complete all or only some of the sections.

All submissions are publicly accessible. For transparency, 2021 contributions will be published on the EASO webpage. Contributions to the 2020 EASO Asylum Report by civil society organisations can be accessed here, under 'Acknowledgements'. All contributions should be appropriately referenced. You may include links to supporting material, such as analytical studies, articles, reports, websites, press releases or position papers. If your organisation does not produce any publications, please make reference to other published materials, such as joint statements issued with other organisations. Some sources of information may be in a language other than English. In this case, please cite the original language and, if possible, provide one to two sentences describing the key messages in English.

The content of the EASO Asylum Report is subject to terms of reference and volume limitations. Contributions from civil society organisations feed into EASO's work in multiple ways and inform reports and analyses beyond the Asylum Report.

Your input matters to us and will be much appreciated!

Nina Gregori - EASO Executive Director

	As a consequence of the health emergency situation, and the consequent mobility restrictions that have affected both the asylum seekers and beneficiaries of International Protection and the interpreters, different telematics media have been implemented in the interpretation processes: videoconferences, simultaneous telephone conferences, and so on.

	During the confinement and mobility restrictions due to the pandemic, telephone and email follow-ups of all people participating in employment and language learning programs were intensified. We used new telematic tools to contact them like video-calls and instant messaging. This way, the employment itineraries have continued normally. Also, all the activities (language courses, employment workshops, guidance and advice on employment and training, etc.) were adapted to this new situation.
	The medical aid is a basic need for the asylum seekers, especially for those people with severe posttraumatic symptoms, that's why is very important provide them psychological support. However the access and attention in specialties such as mental help services is not easy to access them, because of the long waiting list and the overload existing, plus the consequences and measures derived of the global pandemic for the COVID-19.

During 2020, the UN Committee on the Rights of the Child reiterated its concerns regarding age assessment procedures in Spain and their violation of the UN Convention on the Rights of the Child. It affirmed that, in 14 cases assessed and decided by the Committee, Spain failed to carry out a proper age assessment procedure.

In November 2020, the first reception facility for LGBTQI+ asylum seekers was opened by the NGO Kifkif with 20 places.

Particularly during the lockdown, there was an increasing on the demand of psychological assistance related to the parental skills, anxiety, and selfcare strategies related to the lockdown and the posterior de-escalation of the lockdown.

A special mention requires the cases of people with mental health problems and gender violence victims, because the communication and coordination with the specific resources was hard to do.

However, the psychological assessment from Accem, was provided in spite of the difficulties related to the COVID-19

The socioeconomic consequences of the pandemic had have a deep impact in the mental and global health of the people in general, but particularly in the insecurity of the future and stability of the asylum seekers. This will be an issue to attend during the oncoming years

12. Content of protection (including access to social security, social assistance, healthcare, housing and other basic services; integration into the labour market; measures to enhance language skills; measures to improve attainment in schooling and/or the education system and/or vocational training)

Iln general, asylum seekers and beneficiaries of international protection are accessing the Healthcare System, Education System, Social Services and housing. However, they frequently encounter limitations or difficulties in making such access effective:

- In the healthcare field, many professionals are opposed to the participation of interpreters, especially when this service is provided telematically.
- In most regions, there is no immediate transition to financial aid from the Social Services system for those who need it, once they end their participation in the Reception System. Therefore, many of them remain for a variable time without any type of economic resource.
- regarding housing, high rental prices in many provinces, prejudices towards participants in the Reception System due to the lack of stable income from a work activity, the high demands of access to housing, sometimes with abusive clauses in the contracts, limits the offer of housing to homes with worse living conditions. On the other hand, in certain cases participants needs to move to another house due to different circumstances: victims of gender-based violence, transfers for employment, etc. The limitation of the Reception System to a single financial aid of guarantee and agency management assistance per itinerary, makes changes in housing impossible in practice: the agency management is not recoverable and, in cases where it is possible to recover the deposit, the administrative process of recovery is delayed at least one month and, for those cases in which the property refuses to return the deposit, the judicial process is unaffordable for users.

To adapt the intervention at the individual planns of labour insertion in the employment programs, to the confinement period subsequent situations of mobility restrictions;

- The actions and monitoring of the itineraries were intensified electronically (email, telephone, instant messaging and videoconferences), alternating with face-to-face interventions as far as possible.
- New preformative actions were adapted and developed to the different circumstances of the participants and the new situation of the socio-labor context (new sources of employment, access to benefits, subsidies, documentation and dismissal processes or ERTES, documentary extensions, minimum living income, etc.). In addition, the contents were adapted to the online methodology and video tutorials were created to support these preformative actions.
- Access and participation in occupational training online and/or remotely was encouraged among people, as well as their management with training centers in the different territories (advice on their implementation and adaptation).
- Individual information and advice interventions in job search and situations of layoffs, ERTES, resignations, access to benefits, domestic help, agricultural employment, etc., were promoted for the participants and the companies themselves.
- Telematics solutions, instant messaging and email were implemented to share information, employment and training resources, news, content of pre-training actions, etc.
- The acquisition of digital skills of the participants was promoted, through their own and external resources, in order to reduce the digital divide.
- Strengthening of support in telematic procedures for obtaining the necessary documentation to access to job offers and/or occupational training, as well as for other administrative procedures related to training and employment.
- Local Networks were activated in the field of employment and training electronically, for the exchange of information and good practices, as well as the coordination of actions to find joint solutions to the situation generated by the health crisis.

Judgement of the Supreme Court (3rd Chamber, Section 5), of March 3 2020. Appeal nº 868/2019. Key issues: applications at the border, humanitarian grounds

The applicants, an elderly lady and her minor grandson from Venezuela, requested international protection at Madrid Barajas airport. Both the application and the re-examination were denied. There is no reference in the resolutions to the concurrence - or not - of the conditions for obtaining an authorization for humanitarian reason (generally granted by the Spanish Government to Venezuelan nationals since February 2019). The Supreme Court ruled that the Asylum Office should have proceeded ex officio to grant authorization of temporary residence on humanitarian grounds to the appellants, once the application for international protection had been rejected.

The Court admits the possibility of submitting applications for temporary residence permits for humanitarian reasons at the border, even though this possibility is not expressly mentioned in Article 21 of Law 12/2009.

Judgement of the Supreme Court (3rd Chamber, Section 5), of July 23 2020. Appeal nº 3661/2019. Key issues: applications at the border, statelessness

The High Court analyses whether the initiation of the procedure for the recognition of statelessness requires the person concerned to be on national territory or whether it can be initiated from a border post.

The Court rules that when during the processing of an application for international protection at the border (under Article 21 of Law 12/2009) the Asylum Office knows about the possible existence of a situation of statelessness, Article 2.2 of Royal Decree 865/2001 of 20 July shall be applied, initiating ex officio the procedure for recognition of the status of stateless person.

Judgement of the Supreme Court (3rd Chamber, Section 5), of July 29 2020. Appeal nº 4893/2019. Key issues: applications in Ceuta/ Melilla, freedom of movement.

Documents issued to asylum seekers in Ceuta or Melilla included the inscription "valid only for Ceuta /Melilla". The Court notes the inadequacy of such inscription, which is not justified by national law nor in the European regulations nor in the Schengen Convention. It is annulled for being unlawful and it is recognized the right of the appellant to free movement within the Spanish territory.

Judgement of the Supreme Court (3rd Chamber, Section 5), of June 25 2020. Appeal nº 868/2019. Key issues: application at Aliens Detention Centres, legal deadlines.

The Court makes no distinction with respect to the calculation of time limits contemplated for the situation of the applicant at the border and of the asylum seeker who formulates the application from a CIE (Alien Detention Centre). As a result the High Court confirms the duty to notify the decision of inadmissibility to the interested person within a maximum of 4 days from its presentation.

The main challenge last year, was to continue providing the psychological support, adapting the characteristics of the process from the presence to the distance, from the analogical to the digital media; through the lockdown, the posterior de-escalation, and adapt the psychotherapeutic process to the and the measures related with the COVID-19.
