Catalogue of EUAA judicial workshops

Training and/or deciding in international protection cases as a judge is a challenging task. This is because of the complexity of this area of the law, the ever-evolving global geopolitical situation and the potential human consequences that are at stake. To respond to this, judicial practitioners in the field need to rely on high quality tools to support them in their daily tasks.

As a complement to judicial training organised at national level, the European Union Agency for Asylum (EUAA) – the EU centre for expertise in the field of international protection – develops and supports judicial training materials and activities for members of courts and tribunals, in fulfilment of its mandate ⁽¹⁾.

This dedicated support is the result of close collaboration between the EUAA, a dedicated Network and the EUAA Pool of Judicial Experts. This support is intended entirely for the benefit of the thousands of members of courts and tribunals across Europe who are working in this highly specialised, yet fascinating, area of the law.

1. What is the role of the EUAA Courts and Tribunals Network?

The EUAA, through the Courts and Tribunals Sector, has developed a network which has grown consistently over the years. Courts and tribunals from all EU Member States and the associated countries (EU+ countries) are now represented in the network as well as the following key stakeholders:

- the Court of Justice of the European Union (CJEU) and the European Court of Human Rights (ECtHR);
- judicial associations such as the Association of European Administrative Judges and the International Association of Refugee and Migration Judges (IARMJ);
- other bodies, such as the Academy of European Law, the European Union Agency for Fundamental Rights, the European Judicial Training Network and the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees.

Since 2013, the network has been meeting every year to discuss strategic and thematic issues, most importantly in the field of judicial training and activities. In that respect, the network has achieved remarkable results by contributing to the development of specific judicial publications on which all the EUAA judicial workshops are based.

2. Why is the EUAA judicial material unique in its kind?

In close collaboration with the network, the EUAA supports the creation, review, update and translation of dedicated judicial publications that are developed exclusively ‘by judges for judges’. These publications are intended to foster convergence and consistency in the application of international protection law with a great array of topics covering the Common European Asylum System (CEAS). They are available in more than nine languages.

Although these publications are increasingly referred to in leading cases by both national courts and tribunals and the European courts, its primary objective remains that of a unique collection of high-quality judicial training materials.

Each judicial workshop organised by the EUAA is based on a judicial analysis or judicial practical guide. In addition, judicial trainers’ guidance notes provide points for discussion, case studies, moot court exercises and other interactive exercises aimed to support those who deliver training on the respective topics.

3. Who will act as my trainer in the workshop?

In order to carry out professional development activities, the EUAA relies on the EUAA Pool of Judicial Experts, which was established in 2017. It serves as a source of national judicial trainers who are deployed to train their fellow members of courts and tribunals from across EU+ countries.

Members of the pool are all serving members of a court and/or tribunal or trainers from national judicial training bodies, who, as from today, are from 16 EU+ countries. They all have extensive knowledge of the field of international protection and practical insights into the decision-making process.

4. What are the requirements for me to participate in the workshops?

In line with the inclusive approach taken by the network, anyone working in the field of international protection – whether as a judicial trainer, a serving member of a court or tribunal or as a legal rapporteur, assistant or research officer working under their direct supervision – can take part in the EUAA judicial workshops.

Once or twice a year, the EUAA circulates a call of expression of interest to participate in the EUAA professional development workshops amongst the members of the EUAA Network of Courts and Tribunals. The network contact points are responsible for disseminating all the required information and for the nomination of participants for any given workshop. As such, your national contact point is your focal point.

To maintain the high quality of the workshops and exchanges, you will need to demonstrate that you are a serving member of a court and/or a tribunal and/or a judicial trainer working in the field of international protection; possess relevant knowledge and experience of asylum law; and a good working knowledge of both spoken and written English (unless otherwise specified). In the event the nominations exceed the number of places available, the EUAA will draft the final list of participants to ensure a balanced geographical representation amongst the participants.

Please note that distinct nominations from National Judicial Training Bodies directly or via the European Judicial Training Network can also take place.

Participation in the EUAA judicial workshops is free of charge. The EUAA provides a financial contribution to cover expenses relating to participation in face-to-face workshops, including travel and accommodation costs as well as a daily subsistence allowance, in accordance with the applicable EUAA rules.

5. What is the format of the workshop?

All workshops contained in this catalogue are delivered by two judicial trainers from the EUAA Pool of Judicial Experts, usually from two different nationalities and with complementary experience on the topic.

The workshops are designed for an attendance of around 20 participants, 25 being the maximum to encourage interaction with the judicial trainers and exchanges amongst participants.

Whether the workshops are taking place face-to-face or remotely via the WebEx application (or any alternate), interaction is always encouraged based on:

- presentations by the judicial trainers (listening and asking questions);
- case studies (participants split into two groups; judicial trainers act as facilitators; help finding questions and may ask questions; groups will find their way to possible answers);
- group discussions (smaller groups will discuss one or two questions and results are reported back to the plenary);
- moot court exercise (facts are given to members of several groups – the court; the appellant; the state; third party intervener – with the aim to encourage participants to find questions / possible answers, elaborate a strategy and innovate);
- exchanges on respective relevant national case and best practises.

In addition, participants are expected to answer a pre-workshop survey aimed at identifying specific areas of focus to be covered by the judicial trainers.

Although the exact number of hours that are required to follow any given workshops might vary slightly, they include a maximum of 20 hours of training, including the preparatory phase. Face-to-face workshops that are hosted either at the EUAA premises in Malta or in Member State locations last 2 days, whereas remote workshops are spread out over 1 day and a half.

6. How do I know which workshop is best suited for me?

All workshops are based on the judicial analyses or practical guides that can be downloaded from the EUAA Courts and Tribunals webpage here.

The topics have been divided into three categories: core, horizontal and expert.

The core topics are the following:

- Qualification for international protection (Directive 2011/95/EU);
- Evidence and credibility assessment in the context of the Common European Asylum System;
- Asylum procedures and the principle of non-refoulement.

Before considering taking part in any other workshops outlined in this catalogue, especially those covering expert topics, it is advisable that potential participants can demonstrate they have the necessary knowledge in these core topics.

In addition, you will also find workshops in this catalogue that cover topics with a more horizontal dimension. These are:

- Introduction to the Common European Asylum System for courts and tribunals;
- Country of origin information;
- Vulnerability in the context of international protection applications.

Assuming you already have extensive knowledge and experience in the field of international protection law, the following expert workshops might address your needs as a judicial trainer and/or member of a court and tribunal:

- Article 15(c) Qualification Directive (2011/95/EU);
- Exclusion: Articles 12 and 17 Qualification Directive (2011/95/EU);
- Ending international protection: Articles 11, 14, 16 and 19 Qualification Directive (2011/95/EU).
- Reception of applicants for international protection (Reception Conditions Directive 2013/33/EU);
- Detention of applicants for international protection in the context of the Common European Asylum System;

7. Are there any other EUAA judicial activities that I may benefit from as a member of a court or tribunal?

An increasing number of EUAA judicial workshops have been organised over the years with a very high satisfaction rate among participants (more than 90 %). These workshops remain the core of the EUAA's support to the EU+ members of courts and tribunals and, as such, only these are contained within this catalogue.

However, as a judicial trainer and/or a member of a court or tribunal, you might also benefit from a wide range of judicial activities that are being offered by the EUAA. These include national workshops in a language other than English, ad hoc workshops under ongoing EUAA Operational and Technical Assistance Plans to Member States, judicial workshops organised under the auspices of the External Cooperation (third countries) and high-level conferences aimed at fostering horizontal dialogue amongst members of courts and tribunals and convergence in decision making.

Furthermore, webinar series for judicial professionals, the EUAA Expert Panels, allows for members of courts and tribunals to exchange views, interpretations, recent national case-law, best practices on challenging topics and recent developments in the case-law of the CJEU and the ECtHR.

8. Who can answer my questions?

Your national contact point remains your focal point for any questions you may have. Should you require any additional clarifications concerning any of the information contained in the catalogue, please contact the EUAA Courts and Tribunals Sector at judicialsupport@euaa.europa.eu.

In this catalogue you will find details of the scope and content of 11 specialised workshops for members of courts and tribunals in the field of international protection.

All the team of the EUAA Courts and Tribunals Sector is looking forward to welcoming you to one of the agency's judicial training activities!
